RULES SUPPLEMENT

PIES & PASTRIES

BAKED GOODS

A character with the MASTER CHEF heroic ability and access to water and an oven can take a shift to bake a tray (a full item slot worth) of baked goods. If you have a fully equipped kitchen at your disposal, you can bake several trays during the same shift. Each tray of baked goods requires one unit or dose of each of the listed ingredients.

Simple recipes like trail bread and grain bars can be made by anyone with a successful BUSHCRAFT roll for cooking (Rulebook, p.103). They only require access to a fire and water – a field kitchen grants a boon.

CONSUMING BAKED GOODS: Unlike drinking a potion, you cannot eat these baked goods during a combat or otherwise strenuous activity. When eaten during a stretch rest or just before a shift rest, they grant their effects in addition to those gained from the rest.

If your group uses the Memento optional rule (Rulebook, p.27), you cannot heal a condition from the memento and a baked good during the same stretch rest.

DAILY NEED: Once you have eaten food items with a combined weight of 1/4, you have covered your need of food for the day.
