

HALF-ELF

“Never trust a half-breed’, my mother always said, and right she was! The silver-tongued bastards steal your heart and crush it between their silken hands.”

— ENVIS BILE, A HUMAN SCORNE

Half-elves are the offspring of both elven and human ancestors. They pride themselves to have inherited the best of both kin. They are said to have the wisdom and grace of the elves, while retaining the spirit and vigor of humans. Their extended lifespans grant them the time to take advantage of both. They often feel alienated from both elven and human societies, since both don’t fully suit their own dual nature. This leads many half-elves to live lives of adventure and discovery in the wide world.
